Films Show Use of Scale Models in Wind Tunnels

Aviation films followed Wednesday evening's Aeromodelers' business meeting. The films portrayed in color, use of scale models of new type aircraft in wind tunnels to determine what the flight characteristics of the aircraft would be. Also portrayed were the development of new type power plants, fuels and rocket missiles.

A scale model of a Curtiss P-40 fighter plane, powered by a Rantam 19 engine, was exhibited by Robert Cola. His model was judged top place with 156 points in the club's new winter model contest.

Plans were discussed for conducting a large AMA-sanctioned model airplane contest at Bristol Model Airport in the spring. A committee to start the ball rolling for the contest (consisting of Henry Welles, Harold Bahr, Roland Smith, Clarence Wells, William Rasmussen and David Baker) was selected.

Latest member to join the club, Charles Mercer, announced desire in attaining more persons to visit the model craft classes held every Friday evening (6.30 to 8) at the YMCA. Those interested in any type of model craft are invited.

TESTING FOR CHARACTER

So far as they go, intelligence and aptitude tests have proved of undoubted value. But do they go far enough? It is on the assumption that there is still a "farthest north" not measured by these that the John B. and Mary R. Markle Foundation has granted $100,000 to the Social Science Research Council to try to develop new methods to determine qualities that are imbedded in the characters of individual students.

Such methods, if devised, will, it is hoped "reveal emotional stability, drive, force, motivation and other characteristics in the young not measured by intelligence and aptitude tests."

Such new tests would be expected to determine, among other things, how easily the individual could be influenced by companions, whether he could be misled by false nostrums, even whether he is of a type that conceivably could become a traitor to his country in time of war.

By the tests now employed it is possible to identify a scientific genius, in the opinion of John M. Russell, executive director of the Markle Foundation, but they do not measure his stability or character. For the leaders of a safe future, easy acquisition of learning is not enough. Their brains must ably employ reason to discriminate between causes, and they must have the fortitude to stand firm against opposition.

The teaching world will watch with interest the efforts of the Research Council to put testing for character on a par with that of calculating intelligence and aptitude.

STEAKS AGAIN

For those who have forgotten the taste of steak, Chicago provides news that will be good if it is true. Livestock production is increasing so rapidly that cattle raisers and stockyards experts say the meat shortage is about ended. Beef processors are turning out high-quality meat at a higher rate than in any November for four years.

Along with more ample supplies will come lower prices, it is predicted. Skepticism about this must be tempered by the current trend in pork, which is selling below ceiling prices.

What is happening to meat is an example of the operation of the law of supply and demand. High prices for pork and beef led to increased production, which is now forcing down prices.

What is good news for the consumer is bad news for operators of cattle-fattening farms and hog-raisers. Feed is still costly and the fall in beef and pork prices will squeeze producers, who must also compete with large imports from abroad.

But the cattle and hog men will not be in trouble long. Feed prices will drop—or meat prices will rise again. But for a brief interlude at least it seems probable that steaks and beef roasts will be forthcoming at prices somewhat lower than those that have prevailed recently.

Look
to our wire costs!

Ten years ago, a coil of wire like this cost us $7.65.

Today the price is up to $18.80—more than twice as much—and we're using more than ever before!

Our dollar keeps buying less and less of everything we use... wire, cable, poles, trucks, switchboards and a thousand other items. Yet in spite of rising prices, we must buy more and more of all these items as we expand our equipment and facilities to meet the ever-growing demand for telephone service, both civilian and military.

Even so, we've been able to provide more and better telephone service that continues to increase in value.

Telephone service could cost more than it does and still, in comparison with other things you buy, be a big, big bargain.

Says Real Issue of The Campaign is "Americanism"

Members of the Republican party should point with pride to the record of Herbert Hoover as an administrator, and should recall the vast sums of money that he had handled during World War I, in the gigantic European food fund he handled. There was not one question regarding even five cents in the handling of those funds, while today there is so much question about vast expenditures of money in Europe and so much evidence here of it sticking to the fingers of those in power.

"We should be proud of Hoover's record. We know that we as Republicans and as a party have made some mistakes in the past, and the only thing we do have to worry about is a president or party unwilling to admit any mistakes in the past.

"In the midst of so much discussion as to Republican presidential possibilities there is one test every Republican should keep in mind. Decide which prominent Republican candidate would be the least acceptable to Communists, Russia, and that candidate will be the strongest American and the best candidate for president." This phase was greatly enlarged upon by the speaker.

"Let us not be distracted by the obvious evils such as mini coats and refrigerators. Let not these less important evils distract from the record of pro-Communist influence as exemplified in such administration figures as Alger Hiss."

The affair was one of the largest attended meetings in the history of the council. The following delegates to the recent convention gave their reports: Mrs. Horace M. Mann, Mrs. Charles Fairchild, Doylestown; Mrs. Willard Degner, Ivyland.

Vocalist was Mrs. Marjorie Orbach, she being accompanied by Mrs. George Bishop.

Tea was poured by Mrs. John W. Cooper, of this borough, past president of the council; Mrs. Howard Kooker, Quakertown; and Miss Eleanor Worthington, Hartsville.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1951
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. From here on in the State Department will function almost totally as a political arm of the Democratic party. President Truman assured us taxpayers of this fact, when he challenged the Republican party to an election year fight on foreign policy. Nobody in the White House, for instance, is smart enough to answer Senator Robert Taft's criticism of U. S. diplomatic blundering. But a staff of State Department experts are tearing Taft's recent book on foreign policy apart, for the President's exclusive use.

There is even talk that Secretary of State Dean Acheson will take the stump next fall on the President's behalf, but for his own safety Acheson ought to confine his speaking to radio and television studios. He will be shielded from ripe tomatoes if he does.

When Mr. Truman talks about tangling with the GOP on foreign policy he is not speaking about the Far East. He is talking about Europe solely. And it must be kept in mind that he won't be discussing any of the Democratic party's wartime dealings that gave Russia half of Europe and most of Asia, but just those events which transpired after he became President. Even so, the President will have his hands full.

For instance, as of today, Italy and France are on the rocks financially, despite the assistance of American billions and the advice of U. S. economic planning experts. Communism in those countries is on the rise again and huge amounts of rearmament money must be diverted into the consumer economy of both nations if the present governments are to survive.

This, naturally, will set back Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's master plan of rearming European armies, including the Germans in the Western Zone. In fact, right now new delayed deadlines are being set by Western defense leaders, who have been wrung dry of their early optimism concerning a rapid buildup of anti-Russian armies. With luck, Eisenhower will have a fighting field force by the end of 1954, instead of 1952 as initially planned.

This fact is a stinging political reality to Eisenhower, who needs a quick and successful military alliance in Europe as a backdrop for his political ambitions at home.

The General can thank President Truman's Korean war for his plight. This extended fighting has siphoned off most of the new weapons produced, that initially were supposed to be handed over to European armies.

All of these factors limit Mr. Truman's foreign policy battleground to the narrow corridor of what he will claim is super-successful economic aid to Europe. The State Department will plan the strategy of keeping American eyes off the fiasco in Korea and elsewhere in Asia. The big pitch will be that the Russians would now be resting on the banks of the English Channel if Mr. Truman and Acheson had not been master planners against Soviet inroads in Europe. In doing this the President and Acheson will be required to apologize for Gen. Ike's slow progress, and this isn't likely to endear the General to Republicans.

There is one stumbling block that has both the President and Acheson still around and anxious to keep talking about why we are taking such a pasting from the Reds in Asia. The General's strategy is as been reinstated because the defendant didn't produce the proper financial responsibility.

"I can't remember whether I was arrested five or six times for speeding or careless driving," Weaver told District Attorney Willard S. Curtin. "Surely, you couldn't forget something as important to you as that," said the D. A.

Weaver, who admitted he had been drinking beer that day, could give no reason for doing what he did. Other motorists informed the police that he drove in and out and weaved in and out of the River road traffic like crazy.

Judge Biester intimated that a parole, depending on Weaver's conduct in prison, may be considered after three months.

Mathias Wisser, Quakertown, RD. 2, who failed to stop at the scene of an accident, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs. He was arrested Sept. 22 in Filford town-ship by Quakertown State Police-man Malasnik.

Judge Edward G. Biester ordered a bench warrant issued for Donald Z. Cutchall, charged with drunken driving. His name was called three times by Court Crier Clarence Danenower and Judge Biester ordered the defendant's bail forfeited when his bondsman did not appear nor produce the body of the defendant.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA...

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

Bensalem Township School

"A Day in Mexico," a play presented by the sixth grade at Trevose was the culminating activity to their study of Mexico. The all pupil production was given in three scenes; namely, a Market Day, the Siesta and the Fiesta. Narrators gave geographic and historic background data preceding each act.

Notes of invitation to friends of the group and programs were made by the class. The cast wore serapes, sombreros, and peasant costumes designed by the property committee.

Drums, sticks, tambourines and maracas were pupil made instruments used by the rhythm band for rendering several South American melodies. The drums were featured in a novelty to the melody of Babala. The pupils enjoyed dancing to the choral presentation of Fiesta.

Parents and friends who enjoyed the production directed by Miss Isabelle McCoy included: Mrs. Anna L. Teti, Mrs. Anna Keller, Mrs. Betty Hof, Mrs. Evelyn Hood and daughter Carol Ann, Mrs. Evelyn Walters, Mrs. Elsie Morgan, Mrs. Frank Yearicks, Mrs. Thomas Rhyway and son Jimmy, Mrs. Russell Teti, Mrs. Maurice M. Paulus, Mrs. William J. Gardner, Mrs. Bernice Garford and Mrs. Katherine Schmidt.

Mrs. Eunice Crooke, Cornwells fourth grade teacher, p. m. session, is convalescing from a recent operation. Mrs. Helen Johnson Vansant has been the substitute.

Mrs. Nancy Walters and Mrs. Elsie Morgan attended the second meeting of the Philadelphia Area School Study Council, Northeastern Division, held at Doylestown recently. The Bensalem representatives worked on the problem of Home and School Relations, with particular study on parent-teacher conferencing.

Dr. Genevieve Bowen, Bucks County Director of Elementary Education, spent a day visiting teachers new this year to the Bensalem Township staff.

A Christmas carol service will be presented at the regular PTA meeting of the Trevose-Penn. Valley schools on Monday, December 3, at 8 p. m. at the Trevose School. The production is under the direction of head teacher, Isabelle McCoy, assisted by Mary Kerns. Children in the upper division of the school will participate. Sacred numbers to be rendered by the chorus include: Silent Night, Away in the Manger, O Little Town of Bethlehem, O Come All Ye Faithful.

Fred Monach, choir boy, will render a solo. A "human" Christmas tree, formed by boys and girls with the use of special lighting effects will be a special novelty number produced while the chorus render "Oh, Christmas Tree."

The Andalusia PTA is interested in making Christmas happier for the 7000 children and adults in need at Pennhurst. Children of the school have collected toys, clothing and Christmas wrappings for the inmates.

The first grade classes at Trevose school enjoyed two instructional films recently; namely, Animals of the Zoo and the Hare and the Tortoise.

Mrs. Dorothea Soden, speech consultant for Bucks County Schools, worked with each class at the Trevose and Penn Valley schools on Monday demonstrating ways of developing good speech. Individual pupils were given special help in recognizing their need for practicing exercises to correct faulty speech. During the noon hour Mrs. Soden conferred with the Trevose staff noting progress of pupils diagnosed last spring. She outlined plans for teacher follow-up in terms of needs noted in her work activities in the school.

Miss Marjorie Diehl, third grade A. M. teacher at Andalusia, was given a farewell luncheon by her fellow teachers on Thursday at the Northeast Diner. Miss Diehl has accepted a position in the Philadelphia School District. The temporary substitute in this class is Mrs. Mary Burkhalter.

Mrs. Dorothea McCollom, Bristol Township Elementary Supervisor, was guest speaker at the Andalusia-Cornwells A. M. staff meeting recently held at the Cornwells firehouse. The teacher group is studying the area of parent teacher conferencing. Mrs. McCollom recalled her home visiting experiences as a classroom teacher. She discussed the importance of knowing the home environment in relation to working hand-in-hand with the parent in helping the complete growth of the child.

Pennsylvania District

For the second time in the three years of the school's history, the 1951 yearbook of Pennsylvania High School placed first in the annual contest held by Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Editor of the book was Marjorie Seymour, now a student at Pennsylvania State College.

Out of a possible 1,000 points, the book received 930. Especially praised were the photographs, the theme, the layouts and the copy. To quote the critic: "A fine book that is enjoyable reading with good informative captions! Excellent were the student produced pictures!"

Chief weaknesses of the book lay in the incomplete coverage of the school day, incomplete coverage of the activities of underclassmen, and the tendency to be wordy in the copy.

Advisers of the yearbook included Miss Isabel Creagmile, Mr. Arthur Kresbach, and Miss Pearl Ronkin.

George Bledsoe, a seventh grade student at Pennsylvania High School, was the highest salesman in the magazine drive. He sold $93.75 worth of magazine subscriptions, leading the school in sales. From the list of prizes, he chose a flash bulb camera.

The Pennsylvania goal of $4,000 was topped by $64.20.

The other winners whose names were chosen in a jackpot drawing were Judy Hubbard, who chose a portable radio; and Jeanette Hackar, who chose a Bulova wrist watch. Both were seventh grade students.

Classes selling $350 worth of subscriptions were entertained at an ice cream party recently.

One of the newest clubs in the roster of Pennsylvania High School, is the Pensbury Technicians Club chief purpose of which is to train a corps of student projectionists to assist faculty members in the presentation of visual aids.

After an eight-week training period in which each member is taught how to operate and care for the movie projectors, Warren E. Ringler, school librarian and custodian of visual aids, administers a stringent test. Those who successfully qualify in the test become instructors to teach two students from each teacher's classes how to handle movie and sound equipment.

Present members of the club include Chris Bennett, Joseph Hockin, Joseph Hackman, Alfred Reed, Dave Richards, Mike Kungl, John Hubert, Steve Titus, George Roberts, Glen Gerhart, and Nick Michalski.

Rehearsals are already under way for the annual Christmas program to be presented Wednesday, December 19th. Admission is free. This will be the first program to be presented in the school's new auditorium.

The program will feature a cantata depicting the story of Christ in music. Rounding out the program will be a medley of Christmas songs sung by the chorus.

groups and various instrumental selections by the school band.

In charge of the program are Mrs. Janet Stufbeck, Miss Ellen Hauser, and Mr. Arlon Wolfe.

Geologist Foresees Another "Ice-Age"

development has equipped man with enough gadgets to make his home "comfy" even if ice and snow were to lurk on his porch.

Dr. Turnovsky said the last ice period hit the same region 15,000 years ago.

The ice age as a whole lasted about 700,000 years and was interrupted several times by "brief" spells of 60,000 years of warm climate.

The doctor said that we live in one of those "brief" spells after which the glacial period will go on. Dr. Turnovsky arrived at his prediction by subtracting 15,000 years since the end of the last glacial period from the 60,000 years of "warm" spells.

The geologist said brazenly that an ice age right now would do a lot of good.

Dr. Turnovsky, who lectures at the Vienna "Volksbildungshaus"—an evening college—said the latest glacial period has improved mankind tremendously.

He said the hardships of the period forced man to start using his brains.

Man learned to use animal furs and he also discovered fire, one of the greatest achievements in human history.

The 38-year-old geologist, who is a constant contributor to the science page of Vienna newspapers, said if we were to have a glacial period now, it would mean the use of atomic power for peaceful purposes at last.

It would also force mankind to stick together and forget its quarrels. It would lead to the construction of giant irrigation systems in the Sahara desert in Africa and elsewhere to make up for the loss of land covered by the glaciers.

However, we are not that lucky and we'll have to wait for another 30,000 to 45,000 years before getting down to it—unless mankind decides not to wait for another glacial period to get together, the scientist concluded.

It was Nov. 16, 1776, when France gave first formal recognition to the United States.

NEW YORK — (INS) — There's something new in diamonds. The latest jewelry features "matchstick" diamonds which are slim splinters. Baguette-cut diamonds is the name by which they are generally known. They're being shown in triple-range necklaces that have dazzling beauty.

Unique Decorations Used At A Shower in Croydon

CROYDON, Nov. 30.—Arriving at the Coyne Dance Studio with the expectation of attending a commercial demonstration Mrs. Earl Mohr, Jr., was surprised to find a group of her friends gathered to tender her a shower. The affair, arranged by her sister, Mrs. Patricia Coyne Jenkins, was held on Monday evening.

The studio was decorated with pastel colored streamers with a ray of the streamers extending from the center of the ceiling to the dining table. Under this was placed a lace trimmed musical cradle, in which rested a small doll. A stork on a pedestal had streamers from his bill attached to gifts placed in a large container decorated to represent "three" - cornered pants. Favors of three-cornered pants filled with candies were favors. A buffet repast was served.

Various games were played and prizes given to Mrs. Earl Mohr, Sr., Mrs. Jennie Sheetz, Mrs. Hans Scheich and Mrs. John Foster.

Others enjoying the affair: Mrs. Joseph Spalding and Mrs. Michael Kovacs, Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. Harold Jenkins, Bristol; Mrs. Walter Wolsowski, Edgington; Mrs. Anne Fiedler, Mrs. William Frantz, Mrs. Timothy Coyne, Mrs. John McCabe, Jr., Miss Eleanor Wunsch, Mrs. Marie Tregl, Mrs. Edward Owsiak, Mrs. Fred Pollock, Mrs. Marie Hafele, Mrs. George Eisenhardt, Miss Louise Wunsch, and Mrs. Patricia Jenkins.

Cheap Foods Provide Balanced Diet, She Says

ATLANTA, (INS) — A Southern nutritionist, Myra Reagan, has little sympathy for folks who grumble about high food prices.

Miss Reagan admits that food costs are way up, but she adds: "Not on grocery items necessary for a balanced diet."

The nutritionist, a consultant for the Georgia Department of Public Health, explains:

"Many housewives run into budget trouble because they do not take time to plan meals and study advertisements to compare prices.

"Also, they try to feed the family the things that have natural taste appeal that can be brought out with a minimum of cooking."

Miss Reagan points out that cheaper cuts of meat, such as pork liver, kidneys and brains, are moderately priced and just as rich in proteins as steak. She continues:

"The less expensive cuts may be tough, but they can be tenderized by cooking with moisture for a longer period of time."

And, the nutritionist adds, seasoning can do much to improve the flavor. She says:

"It just takes a little imagination to glamorize plain dishes."

Miss Reagan lists fresh and canned fish as also having a high nutritional value and always being available in one form or another.

Cottage cheese isn't fully appreciated either.

The nutritionist states that the fluffy concoction has the protein content of round steak.

Miss Reagan suggests several ways of serving cottage cheese. It can be mixed with onion and pickle or jelly in sandwiches, or it can be made into a loaf, croquettes, cakes or pies.

She considers vegetables even less of a money problem than the protein foods.

Miss Reagan reports that green and yellow vegetables — a must for at least one meal a day — are generally inexpensive and usually available the year round. Included in this food group are turnip greens, mustard greens, collards, kale, carrots, squash, turnip roots, onions, green beans and okra.
